How can CRG Homecare's Support Workers help me?

Our purpose

We provide speciality care to individuals with learning disabilities. Our main aim is to improve quality of life by promoting independence and improving communication and life skills.

Our Support Workers empower individuals to reach their goals, whilst supporting them within the community and accompany them to social groups.

We offer personalised packages of support to help individuals with varying levels of needs. Some individuals may need help socialising or integrating within their community, whilst others may not be able to communicate verbally.

Services

Our Support Workers offers the below assistance to individuals with learning disabilities:

-  Accompanying to social activities & groups
-  Administering medication
-  Personal care such as showering & washing
-  Accompanying on holiday
-  Helping with cooking
-  Support with managing money
-  Emotional & wellbeing support

Terry's Story

“ I have diabetes and when Kevin my support worker was doing checks in our building, he found me on the floor in my flat. He acted very quickly and without him I wouldn't be here now. I'm so proud of Kevin for doing that and am thankful for what he does for me.”

Individuals with learning disabilities are more vulnerable to mental health problems than the general population, therefore we ensure that our Support Workers provide emotional and wellbeing support.

We also promote choice and independence. We ensure that the individuals we support are fully involved in any decisions which may affect their care. All our Support Workers receive training on The Mental Capacity Act and Dignity in Care training.
